Our City Comment & discussion

The Making of Budgets is Finest Kind of Indoor Sport

THIS is the time of the year when city budgets take the limelight. Generally speaking, there is only a small audience attending budget hearings by city councils.

Later, when the taxes are declared, there is at times a protest that something has been put over.

Glendale tonight has a chance to discuss with the council the budget for the coming year. Any analysis of tentative figures is insufficient. How many will be at the city hall of Glendale to hear and study their city's expenses for the year?

Budgets should be adopted by every family and become the basis of domestic finance and family happiness.

The lament, "Where does the money go?" is sounded quite as frequently in the home as in the city hall.

A knowledge of practical home budgets will lead to appreciation of those made by councils for the home-makers.

THE answer made by the Trustees of the Glendale Union High School to the Los Angeles Board of Education regarding Eagle Rock students ought to remove the matter from the political horizon; the proposition made by the Glendale officials being fair to all concerned.

AS stated in these columns a short time ago, the cost per pupil for maintenance in the Glendale high school according to the Los Angeles county supervisor's report for the school year 1921-22, was $161.08. The county and state apportionment amounts to approximately $76 per student.

IF students outside the district were accepted without extra charge the district would have to absorb the difference, amounting to about $85 per student per school year.

The high school trustees have agreed to accept the Los Angeles Eagle Rock pupils providing the Los Angeles Board of Education pays the difference to the local board. This is surely a legitimate offer, for the district receiving the gain should pay the expense.

BURGLARS ENTER GROCERY STORE ON S. BRAND

Take Look in Empty Cash
Drawer and Leave
Empty Handed

The grocery and market at 604 South Brand boulevard, Glendale, operated by O. H. Horn, who resides on Chestnut street, was broken into at about 1 o'clock this morning, according to local police records, but so far as can be learned nothing of value was taken. The thieves after breaking the lock from the front gates, forced open the cash drawer, from which the money had been taken the night before.

The fact that this place had been entered was discovered by Officer Schilling, who with Officers Nunn and Armer, made the investigation. Manager Hohn was notified and later he relocked the establishment.

High Instructors' Conference Today

Conferences of department instructors are being held at Glendale high today to discuss the details of next year's program and the recommendations for it based on the experience of the past year.

In some of the departments a different line of work from what has been carried on this year will be recommended, or modifications of the work of the past year. When all these recommendations have been filed they will be referred to the high school trustees and investigated and discussed.

Details in regard to closing the year's work will also be talked over at the conferences, particularly with regard to students who have not completed their program of work and wish to finish it.

Kulp, the chairman elected at the last meeting, will conduct the session. Mrs. Kulp was temporary secretary. Mrs. Dilley, treasurer. Permanent officers will be elected at the Friday meeting.

At tonight's meeting of the city council the proposed budget for the fiscal year 1923-24, which starts July 1, will again be taken under consideration.

A comparison of its total with that of last year shows a net increase of $67,350, the total budget aggregating $359,700.

Estimated receipts from taxes show an increase of $82,500 over last year, while estimated revenues from miscellaneous sources show a decrease of $15,150, which is wholly accounted for by the cutting off of the electric meter

Modern Building on Property

Geo. W. Anderson, "business property dealer," of 117 South Brand boulevard, reports the sale of 100 feet on South Brand, between Elk and Lomita, for a consideration of approximately $40,000. The owner was Mrs. E. Sherman and the buyer H. Massey of Chicago. Mr. Anderson also sold the northwest corner of Lomita and Brand to Mr. Massey, which was owned by Hal Davenport and S. P. Davis of Glendale, the consideration being approximately $30,000.

Mr. Massey is planning on covering the entire 150 feet with a two-story modern building.

Mr. Anderson sold the 50 feet adjoining the old log cabin on the corner of Lomita and Brand to Helen Cain of Hollywood for approximately $20,000, all cash.

Mr. Anderson has also sold the southwest corner of Gardena and Brand to Mr. Jacks of Glendale, for a consideration of approximately $15,000, the owner being C. H. Hen De Bourck, a retired capitalist of Minneapolis, Minn.

Mr. Anderson has purchased 50 feet near Cypress, which he intends to improve with a modern brick store building, to cover the entire frontage and to run back 60 feet to the total cost of the building and lot to be about $25,000.

Mr. Anderson is very enthusiastic over the property around Los Feliz and Brand and predicts that Colorado and Los Feliz will be the two high lights of Brand boulevard during the next two years, where most of Glendale's activity will center.

Wardlaw Supporters Thank Glendale Press For It's Assistance

The Editor,
Glendale Press,
Glendale, Calif.

Dear Sir:
The Wardlaw For Council club, and I, personally, wish to express thanks for the help you gave us in our recent efforts to elect Mr. Wardlaw to the city council of Los Angeles. Even though unsuccessful in obtaining representation, the valley gained, through the enormous effort it made, political recognition and standing in Los Angeles, and its needs will henceforth receive the consideration that they demand and that they have never, to any satisfactory degree, received before.

We appreciate the assistance that brought this condition about.

Very sincerely yours,
GARRETT McHUGH.

MUTUAL BENEFIT READING CIRCLE HOLDS PICNIC

Atmosphere of Old Home
Days Pervades Event
at Toll Home

By GERTRUDE GIBBS

It had all the flavor of an "old home day" when 125 members of the Mutual Benefit Reading circle assembled at the home of Mrs. Charles H. Toll on Kenneth road, Wednesday, for their annual picnic because it was in that beautiful spot the circle was founded by Mrs. Toll. She gave it shelter and guided its faltering footsteps until it grew in strength and independence and was able to carry on without her leadership. Never have its members forgotten the debt they owe her, nor ceased to hold her in affectionate remembrance.

The picnic was also noteworthy for its demonstration of lavish hospitality. Not only were the regular members who have assembled week after week in the public library during the past year, but invitations were sent to representatives of affiliated organizations and to old members scattered in the Southern California.

The lunch which was prepared by Mrs. Jepson and Mrs. Aichholz was served about 12:30 at tables spread beneath the shade of huge pepper trees. At the special guest speakers' table, which was circular and therefore symbolic, were the orators of the day and officers of the circle.

While at the tables were beautiful in their floral design in the club colors of yellow and green, the speakers' table was especially charming in its tasteful arrangement, the flower being repeated in the design upon napkins and place cards, the favor at each plate being a pot of nasturtiums. Mrs. Pierson Hanning, chairman of tables and decorations, was given credit for this beauty.

The luncheon menu consisted of baked beans, macaroni and cheese, salad, rolls and butter, coffee, ice cream and cake.

At the speakers' table, places were indicated for Mrs. C. H. Toll, "the hostess," her house guest, Mrs. Howell of Hawaii; Mrs. E. B. Moore, president of the Glendale Federation of Parent-Teacher associations with which the Reading Circle is affiliated; Mrs. C. H. Crawford, toastmistress of the day; Mrs. A. A. Barton, chairman of the reading circle; Richardson D. White, superintendent of Glendale city schools; George U. Moyses, principal of Glendale high school; Mrs. H. V. Henry, Mrs. Alma Danford, city librarian; L. T. Rowley, attendance officer of Glendale schools; Ernest Tucker, director of Community Service; Mrs. Ernest Tucker, and Mrs. Charles H. Hutcheson. A place had been reserved for Mrs. Bissell, president of the district federation but she was unable to be present.

The program opened with the singing of "Home, Sweet Home," by all present under the leadership of Mr. Tucker. Mrs. Crawford, who was a clever and witty toastmistress, asked the company to make believe with her that the round table represented a meeting of the president and cabinet of the United States and from these premises she called upon Mrs. A. A. Barton as president, who responded in character. She was followed by Mrs. Danford as "secretary of education," Richardson D. White as "secretary of industry," U. Moyses as "secretary of war," Mrs. E. B. Moore as "secretary of the interior," Mrs. Charles Hutchingson as "attorney general," Mrs. Charles H. Toll as "secretary of state," who supplemented her toast with a fine review of the National Congress of Mothers and P. T. A. held in Louisville, Ky.

This closed the program and members and guests adjourned to the Toll residence with Mrs. Toll in the center, while they sang "Auld Lang Syne," led by Mr. Tucker, separating immediately afterwards to make their adieus and thank their hosts and the officers of the circle for a delightful day. A complete account of the day will be found on another page.

DE MOLAYS PAY TRIBUTE TO ITS FOUNDER

Frank S. Land Received by Annual Conclave of the Order

De Molays of Southern California paid a great tribute to Frank S. Land, grand scribe and founder of the order, at the annual conclave of Southern California, held in Los Angeles yesterday. More than a thousand members of that great order sponsored by the Masonic fraternity, attended the conclave.

Glendale chapter, headed by James D. Thompson, past master councilor, Francis Reid, master councilor, and Paul Morgan, master councilor-elect, attended the sessions in a body, marching in the parade in their newly adopted patrol uniforms.

At the business meeting in the afternoon, numerous matters of importance were decided. At the close of the meeting, officers for the next conclave were chosen. Mr. Sterling of Long Beach was elected president, Mr. Lusk of Huntington Park, vice-president, Mr. Griggs of Fullerton, secretary, and Mr. Dunn of Santa Barbara, treasurer. Santa Barbara was chosen as the seat of the next conclave.

At 5:30 a dinner was served at the Masonic club rooms, with a large attendance. At 7:30 a parade of all the DeMolays moved from Ninth and Olive. The band and drill team of Pyramid 30, Ancient Egyptian Order of Scots, led the parade. The Glendale delegation made a fine showing in the line of march.

A reception for Frank Land was held at the First Christian church after the parade. Mr. Land delivered the address of the evening, during which he announced that he had received a cablegram from Grand Master Councilor Cochran that last week De Molay chapters were instituted in Milan and Rome, and another is to be instituted in Paris next week.

A cameraman from the Fox News Service filmed the delegates on the roof of the Alexandria. Raymond Thompson, of Fullerton, was in charge of the conclave.

SUMMER SERVICE PLANS ARE BEING WORKED OUT HERE

Glendale Community Service is working out a playground and recreation system along lines that have been found to be the most successful and economical in cities throughout the United States, combining the school, municipal and community.

The idea is to interest the city and the schools in a wider use of the school grounds for playground purposes during the vacation period.

With this idea in mind a committee from Glendale Community Service, the park commission and the two school boards have worked out a plan for four summer playgrounds or play centers, to open July 2. The program of the centers and the hours is as follows:

High School Grounds:
Woman in charge, hours 1 to 6 p. m.; Man in charge, 4 to 9 p. m.

Cerritos School: Man in charge; hours, 2 to 7 p. m.

Central Avenue School: Man in charge; hours, 2 to 7 p. m.

Swimming Pool, Patterson Avenue Park: Hours, 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m.

Story, telling at certain periods on the playgrounds is being worked out.

All children of the city are invited to attend the playgrounds. Special features are planned for girls.

The program is in charge of Community Service with the wholehearted co-operation of the city government and the public schools.

THE WEATHER [By Associated Press]

SAN FRANCISCO, June 21.—Fair tonight and Friday; fresh westerly winds. Southern California, fair tonight and Friday; except cloudy in morning near coast; moderate westerly winds.

REALTORS TO START CAMPAIGN FOR CITY PARK BOND ISSUE

Glendale Realty Board Members Appoint Committee
to Secure a Park or Park Sites for the City,
Details to Be Worked Out Later

HADDOCK WOULD SELL VERDUGO PARK

Some Members Declare Former City Municipal Picnic
Ground Was Lost Through "Lack of Vision"
of Voters in Recent Election

The citizens of Glendale may be again asked to vote on a bond issue for a city park, as the result of resolutions passed at the meeting of the Glendale Realty Board yesterday, on a motion by Dr. Jessie Russell.

It was announced in the discussion that Mr. Haddock, one of the recent purchasers of the late Glendale-Verdugo park, would be willing to sell the park site back to the city for what it had cost him. He recently took it off the city's hands. The deal is still in escrow.

The resolution authorized the appointment of a committee of five to see what action should be taken to secure a park or park sites for this city, details to be worked out later. This committee, it is understood, will be appointed by President Thom at an early date, and will bring in its report to the board within a reasonable time.

The move on the part of the board came as a result of the jinx that was held by that organization in the Haddock-Nibley park, last Saturday. "The various members, as expressed at Wednesday's meeting, were so impressed with the desirability of a park that they decided to endeavor to put the matter up to the people of the city again."

"Mr. Haddock, one of the owners of the park site, has informed me," said W. L. Twining, "that he would be willing to sell the park site back to the city for what it cost him."

"I believe if the Realty board would put this matter squarely before the voters that the proposition would go over, and that it would carry 5 to 1."

Roy L. King said: "I think it was a crime that the people voted that park down. It is a wonderful place. People come from all over to picnic at Brookside. They would do the same with our park if we had one, this meaning a wonderful amount of advertising for this city. I believe the board should get back at this thing 100 per cent strong."

"It is a pity," said Peter Hanson, "that a park of this kind should not be purchased when it can be bought so reasonably. Everything is ripe for that park being made one of the most wonderful playgrounds in this part of the country. I would be willing to start a movement to get the park for Glendale and to keep it."

"This is a timely matter," said W. A. Horn. "All the city should be behind this matter. All that has been said is the truth. But the question is, what is the best policy with regard to this thing. The park was lost to Glendale through lack of vision. Many of the people look to the Realty board members as men with a vision, and they would give anything we might present, kindly consideration."

The decision reached was that no particular site should be recommended by the committee, but that several, if possible, be brought forward for consideration. One point brought out clearly was that it be decided right at the start that no commission be secured by any member of the Glendale Realty board or others in connection with this park proposition, but that whatever is done should be done in the interest of Glendale only.

The suggestion of the sign committee of the board with regard to the electric "Glendale" signs located on San Fernando road and the one on Broadway, is that these signs be permitted to stay right where they are, and that another sign be placed on the east side of Brand, just north of San Fernando road, reading, "Brand Boulevard, Glendale," and another be placed on Broadway just east of San Fernando road, reading, "Broadway, Glendale." This the committee, through Realtor James Pearson believed would be the best means of giving the central business section of the city a "fair shake" without bringing offense to the people living in the vicinity of the signs.

The actual performance is to be given tonight at 6 o'clock at the school grounds, when at dusk these scenes of past days of glory and chivalry linking hands with the present will be enacted before the parents and friends of the graduates, under the direction of Miss Ada M. Sallstrom.

A preview of the historical pageant presented by the graduating class of the Wilson avenue intermediate school of Glendale was given on this morning at 10:15 for the benefit of the children of the lower grades.

Seven episodes, depicting the different periods in American history, presents a wonderful array of costumes dating from the days of the 13 colonies until after the late World War, and through the dramatic scenes enacted the students are given opportunity to display surprising talent.

VACATION FROLIC
Odds and Ends of Things Called on for Summer Fun

BY JENNIE SWENSON

Vacation is here and with it a veritable army of idle hands and active minds, loosened upon the local world of parents, some of whom will be ready to declare themselves candidates for the institutions where the inmates go by numbers at the end of the first week, after fruitless efforts to keep the little hands busy as well as the brain.

The old adage has it that a certain troublesome character in the affairs of man has been given the credit of finding employment for the idle hands, but the Press has gone this old bluff and better
offers one of the most popular indoor sports in the newspaper chronology.

This is the Swap column. No,
it doesn't mean that the parent
is to swap the child for the offspring of some other fond parent or that the Press is going to offer to adopt all the errant
youth of the city in an effort to bring peace to the home, but here's
the corner stone of the plan.

During the year haven't you found that at least six articles have accumulated—articles for which you have no particular use, that you felt foolish over buying, after spending your perfectly good cash,
and now, after sundry mental debates, have relegated them to some unconspicuous corner in the attic,
or in the cellar, should you be fortunate enough to possess such a home accessory?

If you have you may know that your plight is just the same as that of hundreds of others, who unwillingly admit that such articles are in their possession, but having paid good money for them are reluctant to depart with the same.

Well, it's going to be the simplest thing in the world now that the Swap column is to start in the Press Saturday. You can let the bit into the hands of the children
delve into the far corners of the home and designate all the superfluous furnishings for a swap.

Every child on the street will form the habit of saying, "Have you a little Swap in your home?"

One might be able to swap a carpet sweeper for a baby carriage;
a floor lamp for a hammock; a rug
for an umbrella; a checker board
for a sewing basket; a carving knife for a nail file—just anything!
It doesn't make any difference
what you swap, just so you get into the game, and anyone who doesn't think the children will get more fun
out of swaps than out of ten movies
certainly doesn't fully understand
the inner workings of the youthful mind.

One can readily see that it is going to be worth a trip to Catalina just to read the Swap column.
Barter was the first instinct in the world's trade, and take it from the Press, the Swap column is going to prove that the majority of people still enjoy a little reversion to the primary instincts.

WALTER WESTCOTT TO SUPERVISE SCOUT CAMP

Captain of South Branch,
U. of C. Football Team
Is Engaged

Walter Westcott, Eagle and Jambores Scout, star athlete and captain of the 1923 football team of the Southern Branch University of California will attend all of the 1923 co-operative Boy Scout troop camps to be held from June 27 to July 30 near Lake Arrowhead. This announcement came this morning
from Frank C. Ayars, chairman
Boy Scout camping committee.

Having heard of Mr. Westcott's fine record in scouting and knowing him to be one of the cleanest
young athletes in the University,
the committee decided that he was the man wanted to supervise scout activities and campfire programs
at Camp Roy-Lent. Accordingly
he has been induced to attend all of the 10-day troop camps for the express purpose of assisting the scout masters in preparing and carrying out their daily program
of scout activities," stated Mr.
Ayars.

According to Scout Executive
Harold Benner, who has known
Mr. Westcott from the time when he first joined the Boy Scouts in 1915, he has made a big record in scouting and has piled up many honors at the University of California, Southern Branch, where he is now finishing his senior year.
Following is a condensed record of
his achievements to date:

Mr. Westcott has been actively connected with the Boy Scout movement for nine years and during that time he qualified for Life, Star and Eagle scout, reaching the highest degree that can be conferred on any boy scout. After reaching the goal of 21 merit badges which is required for the Eagle rank he kept right on taking more until at the present time he has forty of these badges of distinction to his credit.

During the war he was awarded
special medals by the government
for selling high amounts of thrift stamps and liberty bonds. In 1918
he won the Los Angeles county championship in bugling. During 1919-20 he served as assistant camp
director of the Los Angeles Boy Scout Council and in 1921 he became assistant field executive.

At the present time he is physical director for boys at the Los Angeles Community Settlement
House, sponsored by the Rotary club of that city.

Mr. Westcott's career at the University is equally as creditable as
was his commendable course as a Boy Scout. He has been on the football team for three years and is captain of this year's team. In 1921 he made the swimming and wrestling team and during 1922-23
he was instructor in wrestling at the University in addition to being assistant instructor in gymnastics and posture training. He is vice-president of the student body and was yell leader for 1921-22. In 1921 he was president of the University Y. M. C. A. He was editor of the Freshman Handbook
in 1921 and during this year is a member of the Year Book staff.

He plays the cornet, bugle,
drums, ukulele, banjo, and violin
and plays in the university orchestra and band. He is also a captain in the R. O. T. C.

On top of all these things Mr.
Westcott has been at the head of practically all his classes and has won two scholarships. He is a Red Cross first aid expert and is a member of the American Red Cross senior life saving corps.

SAYS RIP TIDE
BUCKERS DROWN

[By Associated Press]
LOS ANGELES, Calif., June 20.
—An unusual number of drownings
at seaside resorts near here during the last few weeks has led to a discussion of the habits of the rip tide,
a factor blamed for many of the fatalities.

According to Fred Cady, instructor of swimming at the Los Angeles Athletic club, the rip tide, though perilous under certain conditions
for even the experienced swimmer,
would not carry bathers to their deaths if the simplest rules of strength economy were followed.

"Never buck the tide," advises Cady, "but swim to either side of it, saving energy until out of the current. Then, and then only, swim for shore."

Eyrie Social Club most thoroughly enjoyed the luncheon party and

membership is increasing it is found more convenient to hold the

may bring their little folks and they will be cared for.

FROM LUCILE'S DIARY
It was yesterday morning when Aunt Rachel's chauffeur brought a dress box to the house. I opened
it with a good deal of excitement,
for I hoped mightily that it was something that I could wear in the afternoon to the Marcross team
in place of my black canton crepe, in which I have appeared over and over again this season.

To my delight I found a most ravishing georgette and velvet costume of that fascinating fuchsia shade. I slipped it on, thinking as I glanced into the mirror how lovely it was of Aunt Rachel to send me such a beautiful frock. I really looked a dream in it and it required but little changing to fit
me. Cousin Fannie and mother
were out, but I remember that Mrs.
Grace, our near neighbor, had a dressmaker in the house, so I ran to her for advice.

"Do show me, Miss Hankins, how to shorten this dress," I said. "I shall be awfully grateful for a little help from you. I see Mrs. Grace has gone out, but I know she would be glad to lend me a little of your time and talent. She is always body's taste I'd rather consult than yours, Miss Hankins. You are really an artist."

"What a beautiful gown, Miss Lucile!" she exclaimed. "I wish I could help you with it, but I have a lot to do to finish this dress that I'm making for Mrs. Grace. She's proprately gowned that I wished to do some one a kindness and I went over to Louise Erwin's for luncheon. I told her that I would share a taxi with her to the Mar-cross tea.

"Why I don't need a taxi, Lucile," she protested. "I haven't any gorgeosity to protect."

"Dear me, Louise, you do rather need a new afternoon frock," I remarked as she slipped into her little brown velvet that she had worn all winter. "Wouldn't you
like my black canton crepe, dear?
We could stop at my house long enough for you to get into it."

"No, thank you, Lucile. I think this brown is just as good style
as your black," she said shortly.

I enjoyed the Marcross tea tremendously. It is a balm to one's spirit to be properly and becomingly clothed. But when I got home,
at about 7 o'clock, mother took all
the joy out of my day by announcing that Aunt Rachel was furious
with me.

"When we couldn't find it anywhere, Tilly told us that you wore
that new fuchsia frock of Aunt Rachel's. How could you, Lucile?"

"Why I supposed she sent it here
for me to wear, mother dear."

"Well, she didn't. She intended to wear it herself to the annual meeting of the Friends of Native Arts society, at which she was to preside. She didn't wish to wear
it to the Settlement Guild lunch,
where she went with Fannie and me, so she had her chauffeur bring it here to put on this afternoon. I should have thought that when you saw her toilet articles in the same box you might have guessed that she—"

"But mother, how could you expect me to—" I began, but mother marched away, not waiting for any explanations. She is dreadfully unreasonable at times.

Now that that frock is taken in,
and shortened, and redraped to fit
me, I do hope Aunt Rachel will make me a present of it.

When some people tell us that they did their best, we wonder what their worst is like.

ing has no call to follow.

Glendale team plays San Fernando here next Sunday.

The Glendale squad takes on the league leaders on the home lot at Park avenue and San Fernando road Sunday in the feature game of the league. San Fernando leads the league, having lost but one game, Glendale being the only club to defeat them.

Manager Walt Heidler, who landed it its only defeat by not allowing them a single hit, will endeavor to duplicate his last game against them.

Cecil Cruz, the much touted hurler, will pitch for San Fernando. So with these two hurlers opposing each other a great pitchers' duel is expected. If Glendale can win Sunday it will bring them one-half game from first place. This is another reason this game should be hotly contested. The biggest crowd that ever attended a ball game in Glendale is expected to witness this diamond battle.

Game called at 2:30.

Miss Abbott expects to be away about six months.

Miss Ellen Hanson, head of domestic science department, goes to Berkeley for summer work at the university, from there will go to Seattle and then to her home in Kansas.

After returning with his family from a trip to Yosemite, Morgan Smith, of the manual arts department of Glendale high will teach for a few weeks in the summer school of the University of California, Southern Branch, reserving a couple of weeks in which to put the motors of the Glendale high shop in good working order and ready for the fall activities. No new machinery will be added to the department until it is moved to the new campus at Verdugo and Broadway.

Bert Rolfe of the auto shop will take in the C. E. convention at Long Beach before going elsewhere on a vacation trip and will Whitney in the course of a mountain hike. He plans to get back to Glendale two or three weeks before school opens to see that everything is in readiness for his classes. While there will be no material change in his week-day work, he expects to have a "theory class" in the night school for auto work to which women will be eligible next fall and winter. This should appeal to owners of autos who want to learn something about their mechanism and repair.

Paul E. Webb, instructor in journalism, will devote a part of his vacation to summer work at U. S. C. and will probably take a mountain trip after that.

Miss Daisy Monroe goes to summer school at the Southern Branch U. of C. but before enrolling may go with her parents to Yosemite valley if they can secure reservations. Her home is in Monrovia.

Miss Jennie Freeman returns to her home in Provincetown, Mass., leaving Sunday morning. She will also spend some time in Boston and may make an auto trip into the White Mountains.

Miss Fay N. McEndree, whose home is in Los Angeles, will go east with Miss Freeman as far as New York, stopping en route in New Orleans, Washington and Philadelphia.

A goodly number of the teachers are loyal Glendallians who plan to spend their summer here with occasional absences on auto trips. Of this number are Harold Brewster, Irving Oliver, Preston A. Fullen whose home is on Randolph street, and who will make a run up to the Yosemite in the course of the summer; also Mrs. Gertrude Ballard, who has just gotten into a new home at 278 Eagleade avenue which she expects to enjoy very much. Miss Charlotte Spler and Miss Mary Haingrove of the sewing department will also summer in Glendale.

Miss Wilhelmina Hobush says her vacation will seem quite tame after her interesting experiences abroad last year. She is leaving the 30th for Salt Lake City and will go from there to her mother's ranch in Idaho, but will return to California to spend a few weeks at Big Bear before school opens.

J. Rhea Baker, head of the commercial department, will teach during a part of the summer in the Commercial Expert Training School of Los Angeles, and will spend the rest of his vacation in Glendale and vicinity.

Miss Harriet Switzer of the same department goes east, Miss Mabel Murphy and Miss Helen Goldthwaite will remain in Glendale. The full staff of teachers in the commercial department will return in the fall.

Mrs. W. H. Roberts of Des Moines, Iowa, mother of Warren Roberts of this city, arrived Sunday and will be his guest for the summer.

Beauty up-to-date!

"Because my sister and I have taught Marinello beauty methods so long, I enjoyed the professional school held by Marinello in Chicago this summer."

"Because Glendale has favored us so splendidly with patronage, we want our clients to know."

"That our Marinello methods of 18 years are maintained in this careful way."

MISS MCCORMICK.

Editorials by the People

To the editor of the Glendale Daily Press:

Early in the spring a year ago, when the present man-made, mad-dog scare was first inaugurated, we gave vent to our indignation in the following article. But at that time we felt that the people at large were not just ready to consider favorably such sentiments. Recent developments, however, seem to have prepared the public mind of Glendale to receive such pabulum, so we proffer our efforts to your columns, knowing they are ever open for the expressions of any friend of the helpless.

THE MYTHICAL MAD DOG

"Yet he only asks, with a pleading fair,
When this madness of might shall cease,
To hold in your bosoms one human law—
Remember our dogs in the days of war,
And our dogs in the days of peace."

"And our dogs in the days of peace?" Have some of us already relegated to the discard, to the rubbish heap of our memories, the noble deeds, the almost unbelievable achievements of our war dogs? Days and weeks and months of courageous service, full of pain and discomfort and suffering and then, death perhaps. And for what? Did the dogs know? Could they know? We are certain they did know and did understand. Who are we that we should say that creatures who showed such extraordinary intelligence, such wonderful workings of a remarkable sixth sense, if you fill, did not soulfully comprehend the one gigantic tragedy of all time? The World war brought to our attention, as no other single agency has ever done so forcibly, so unmistakably, the possibilities of our dear, dumb friends, our dogs; the tenderness of their sympathy, the gentleness of their care, the loyalty of their devotion, the strength of their protection.

Every one knows that a dog will mourn and starve himself to death upon the grave of "rag and bone and a bank of hair." We all know he will unhesitatingly, without a sign of fear or a thought of self, seeking only to save one whom he loves, plunge into a burning building to drag to safety "a bunch of conceit in a masculine hide." We could fill these columns with stories of the heroic deeds of our blindly devoted and faithful friends, faithful even unto death—their death, "our dogs in the days of peace."

And in return for this we give a dog—what? A cuff, a kick, a "Get out of there, you cur!" a tin can at his tail, a wire cage on his head. A yell of "Mad dog!" A pistol shot. Uh, what a bad aim—another shot, a third! A last, a merciful, pitying death!

There comes to mind Frank Lowden's comment upon the man who was engaged by the United States government to fight the boll weevil. He set at his task with zeal, and soon found the boll weevil not only in the cotton, but on the trees and the shrubs, in the water; the very air was thick with boll weevil. Boll weevil swarmed over every object that came under that expert's eye. He thought boll weevil, he dreamed boll weevil, he hate and drank boll weevil! Vast sums were demanded from our treasury to fight that terrible scourge of boll weevil! History does not state, but we can yet assure that that expert turned in to a boll weevil and fumigated himself to death!

Are some of California's officials following in the footsteps of the boll weevil expert? Is much of the public's hard-earned tax money being spent to create and to knock down a straw-man bogey? Some of our citizenry will soon see mad dogs every time they turn a corner; they will have mad dog nightmares, and finally die of imaginary hydrophobia!

You have heard of the experiments performed upon two convicts who had been condemned to death. (You understand they had to die anyway, so the vivisection might as well use them to gain valuable deductions for the benefit of humanity at large). One convict was given an immaculate, "germless" bed room, but was told that a man had just died of yellow fever in that very bed, in that very room. In a few days the frightened fellow became ill and died, killed by fear. The other convict was placed in a room in which a man had just died of yellow fever, but he was assured the room was clean and sanitary. He slept peacefully in the fever-infected room, and emerged from the test well and hearty. So much for the power of suggestion.

Our dear friends of the medical fraternity, "all honorable men," who sit at Sacramento, continually and persistently assure us that, as guardians of our physical well-being, they are spending our taxes in the line of sanity and wisdom. They must, perforce, make us realize that they are needed else we might remain in blissful ignorance of the dangers with which we are encompassed and forget that a medical board exists. Therefore, when the menacing phalanx of diphtheria, influenza, small pox, bubonic plague, can no longer be made to function the medicals' battle is again opened. And—! There issues forth a genit of horrible mien! This mythical creation of the state bears a head with gleaming, glaring, fiery eyes; long, scraggy, drooping ears; a hideous mouth with ugly fangs and a lolling tongue; and, clinging to the four lips, yellow froth and dripping strings of shiny mucus. As we look upon this dreadful vision we see a resemblance to a dog. Ah, yes, it is labeled "Mad dog!" And this evil spirit is uncorked in the month of April, while the snow covers the mountains and our bodies are chilled to the bone!

And we, rational men and women, having minds to think, with and wills to act with, tremble and cringe and grovel on our knees before this apparition, this creation of fumes from a bottle! How long, dear public, how long?

'PLAY WITH THE CHILDREN' IS
NEW SLOGANCommunity Service Calls
Attention to Back Yard Playgrounds

"Play with your children" is the appeal made by Community Service in calling attention to home play in the opening week of vacation, starting June 24. With the vacation period at hand many parents are wondering what to do with the children during the summer months. Many of them have neglected to make arrangements in their own yard for the children to play.

It is with the idea of assisting the parents in helping the children to find themselves by providing suitable play space and equipment under home supervision that Community Service has compiled a folder, which is being distributed through the schools, Community Service headquarters and elsewhere, containing some suggestions for home play equipment.

Not only can the back yards be utilized, but several families may get together and on a vacant lot erect their own miniature community or neighborhood play center. The boys will take added pleasure in using the equipment if they have an actual part in its construction.

Arrangements have been made by Community Service with the Bentley Lumber company, Glendale Lumber company, Fox-Woodsum Lumber company and the Inglewood Lumber company so that they have a supply of lumber already cut to the necessary lengths, as specified in a folder issued by the service for the construction of the various pieces of equipment.

For the small space there might be built a sand box for the smaller children, a baby swing, horizontal bars, flying rings, teeter boards, etc. Back yard features for older children include basketball goal on garage, golf driving net in garage, high jump pit with standards.

To stimulate further interest in home playgrounds, any home qualifying with six of the suggestions contained in the folder may enroll at the Community Service office. Recognition will be given the most practical home playground. No charge will be made for registering.

Report 1500 Homes Located in District During Past 8 Months

One of the latest points of interest to be spotted on the real estate map of Southern California is the University Garden subdivision, which lies to the right of the intersection of Pershing avenue and San Fernando road.

Located in the heart of the Pacoma valley, where it is estimated 5000 people will be making their home by 1924, and where a number of real estate agents have been seen to locate their offices as an indication of their belief in the future of the district, University Gardens is one of the first subdivisions to be opened to the public in this section.

Lots are being sold in quarter-acre sizes, and smaller, affordable, ample proportions for any size of home. It is stated that 1500 homes have been located in this valley during the past eight months.

The Suburban Estates company, of 755 West Seventh street, Los Angeles, is managing the sales in University Gardens, which was officially opened on June 1. Since that time, the first unit has been entirely sold, and the second is to be placed on the market the first of next week.

Salmacia Brothers Say
Steady Demand Makes
For Stability

That business is running along at an even tenor is the report made by Salmacia Brothers, proprietors of the Glendale Music company, 109 North Brand boulevard.

"It is the year-to-year business of the music store that counts," said Mr. Salmacia. "If the record of the second year shows an increase over the first year, and so on from year to year, the music dealer knows that business can be contracted on a firm and solid basis."

Believing in the future growth of Glendale, and preparing for the possible necessity of seeking new and larger quarters, Salmacia Brothers have bought a 25-foot lot on the west side of South Brand boulevard between Harvard and Colorado. While they entertain no plans for the immediate future, Frank Salmacia states the purchase was made with a view to reserving a location for the future.

That there is a steady demand for sheet music, phonograph records, pianos and phonographs, the sales records indicate, it is reported.

and thus needlessly terminate their life-span.

"With the continued rise in the level of general intelligence and economic well being, the amount of control over tuberculosis will be increased. What may happen in the future is indicated by the phenomenal drop in the tuberculosis death rate during very recent years when the standard of living among wage earners rose sharply. Better homes, higher real wages, more time for rest and recreation, and intelligence to utilize to the full these helps to better health, have reduced the tuberculosis death rate of the wage-working population after the war. The anti-tuberculosis campaign itself is an index of the higher intelligence and the social conscience which characterized an advanced civilization."

PREDICTS LOWER
DEATH RATE FROM TUBERCULOSIS

[By Associated Press]
SANTA BARBARA, Calif., June 20.—"The decline in the tuberculosis death rate of the last two decades from over 200 per 100,000 population to less than 100 in the registration area of the United States, is in large measure to be credited to the organized campaign against tuberculosis which has been carried on by the official and non-official agencies during this period," says Dr. Louis I. Dublin of New York before the National Tuberculosis association here at today's meeting. Dr. Dublin is statistician of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company.

A careful study of the statistics gathered from all over the world by Dr. Dublin gave a direct answer to those who from time to time have questioned the value of the anti-tuberculosis

Truths in Epigram

The fears of old age disturb us, yet how few attain it.—La Bruyere.

Every man desires to live long; but no man would be old.—Swift.

Who cannot give good counsel?—Tis cheap, it costs them nothing.—Burton.

And with what measure ye mete, it shall be measured to you again.—New Testament.

DIPLOMACY AND PEACE

The assertion of Senator Reed that diplomacy is the sure way to peace has a pleasing sound. It would indicate the certainty of peace. There is no lack of diplomacy as between nations. True, much of it is secret, and more of it is insincere. Diplomacy leads to the making of treaties, the same to be voided at will. It results in gentlemen's agreements, that are binding so long as every party thereto is content to be a gentleman, and keep his word. When the rights of a nation, as conceived by the people of that nation, are threatened with impairment, no previous understanding remains binding. If the issue concerns the possession or control of material property, it will be taken up precisely as though diplomacy were an unknown-art, or trick, or whatever it should be called.

The senator was arguing against an international court, although most of the effects of diplomacy he possibly might be able to cite, would constitute an argument for the other side. Diplomacy has failed. The formulations growing out of it are due to the expediency of the moment. They do not cover unknown conditions of the future. Germany had treaties in plenty. Russia is willing to enter into treaties, but it has proclaimed in advance that no treaty it signs shall endure. It admits readiness to break the most solemn obligation at will, regardless of promise or of honor.

An international court would give substance to the findings of diplomacy, which, in the absence of a tribunal competent to enforce rules, is an empty shell. Such a tribunal would tend to draw nations into more intimate relationships, for they would make common cause against the violator of pledges. The proposed court would be the greatest influence in promoting and preserving peace, for it would make diplomacy, now an idle form, a thing of substance and power.

AN EXTRAORDINARY SPECTACLE

Whatever the outcome of the soviet regime, the historian must write of it as one of the most extraordinary of spectacles. That it has lasted so long, is in itself an amazing thing.

A pro-bolshevik American paper exulting that the soviet oligarchy has become permanent, recalls that in the beginning it had said "the Russian soviet government stood upon foundations laid deep in the soil of the Russian peasants' character, sturdiness and aspirations."

Unhappily for that particular prophet, the foundation described is lacking. It is upon the character of the peasants that Russia must depend for ultimate freedom from a hateful a tyranny as ever oppressed a people. The Russian peasants are victims. They may not be expected forever to endure such conditions as leave them to eat the bread of charity, in a land that should be a land of plenty.

The leaders of the present regime care nothing for Russia. Their plan is to promote a revolution to embrace the governments everywhere, to efface them all, and to leave these bloody-minded leaders the masters, not alone of one country, but of all the countries of the world. No secret has been made of this ambition. Bolshevik emissaries are everywhere that possibility exists of stirring up strife, or changing discontent into armed conflict. Russia says that it asks to be let alone, but declines to let any other land alone. The elevation of bolshevism into a controlling force has been in no part the work of the peasants, but resulted from unprecedented combinations of circumstance that gave to the former tools of Germany the chance to seize power. They have the army. In the absence of this army they would have nothing. The people are poor, timid through the continued exhibition of brutality, and barren of leadership. In the possibility that a leader may arise lies the hope of Russia as a nation.

WON BY A LEMON

A girl working in a California fruit packing house last year put her address on a lemon with the suggestion that the recipient of the fruit write to her. A man somewhere down in Kansas received the lemon and took the hint. There followed a correspondence, growing as it progressed, more and more fervid in tone. Such inevitably is the case when maid and man conduct a correspondence; either this or the correspondence lags and expires. This time there was no lagging. In due season there was a proposal of marriage, and an acceptance. Meanwhile the pair never had met. At this writing the prospective groom is believed to be approaching, and a wedding is to follow. There is the usual flutter of excitement, and perhaps a little more. For people to see each other for the first time only when they are about to apply for a license, must add a little to the ordinary excitement of which each is conscious.

It is possible for the individual who writes well, to create through the lively fancy of his pen, inspired by affection, an image so ideal, that the reality, compared with it, will dawn upon the disillusioned senses with a shock. May it be hoped that in this instance all shall be more than satisfied?

The humble lemon has appeared in a new role. Many as are its uses, its employment as a matrimonial agency is novel. "Handing a man a lemon" ordinarily is regarded as slang. It means handing him something that he does not want. An orange is far more luscious, and suggests the proper blossoms. However happily this match may turn out, there are methods of wooing that, in sober judgment might be deemed safer.

Some men fail because they are honest and some because they are not.

AUSTRIA COMES BACK

Perhaps the most surprising feature in European news is that relating to the revival of Austria. Immediately after the treaty of Versailles the doom of that country appeared to have been written. It was said the Austrians had been cut off from all resources, and left to face starvation. Nevertheless Austria today gives every evidence of good government. It has no problem of unemployment. It is not begging the outside world for sustenance. On the contrary, it has sought the money it needed for the immediate work of reconstruction, by methods so thoroughly business-like as to have inspired confidence.

The conduct of Austria and that of Germany are in violent contrast. In the former, the people seem to have accepted the situation, knowing it to be bad, and not to have given way to despair, nor become involved in intrigue. They went about their business with energy and system, and in the open. Germany on the contrary, rebelled against the inevitable, declined to submit, broke its pledged faith, and aroused suspicion as to its intent. The difference in results is not surprising.

Austria's remarkable come-back is a most encouraging sign. Often there is expressed the fear that Europe is approaching chaos. No part of it had a darker prospect than Austria faced. If the rest of Europe would refrain from reliance on arms, and set about mending the injuries of war, rather than plan upon increasing them, it might experience a like dawn of prosperity.

A fool will rush in where a grafter is satisfied with a look-in.

When we refuse to meet an emergency it is apt to overtake us.

CONSIDER THIS

By ESTELLE LAWTON LINDSEY

"Think internationally." Everybody says it, but few people do it, even when internationally thinking would illumine a local problem.

Take the matter of dope about which we are so greatly, and I fear so justly, exercised.

"Educate the children to the menace," cry the reformers, which is good as far as it goes. Within the next three months an international opium conference will meet at Washington and try to devise ways and means to stop the traffic in narcotics.

With that in mind, remember that Great Britain derives vast revenues from the opium grown in India and that the city of Victoria or Hong Kong island, a British possession, has a population of about 500,000, but receives annually enough opium to supply 150,000,000 people.

Connect those facts and see whether opium is likely to find its way into the interior of China. Think internationally again, and then consider what follows: Under the treaty of Versailles the regulation of the opium question was assigned to the League of Nations. The council of the league appointed an advisory committee to draw up a plan and on this committee was the brilliant Dr. Wellington Koo, the Chinese delegate. Practically and honestly he had made this suggestion, that the committee should recommend the restriction of the cultivation of the poppy and other narcotic producing plants to such acreage as would meet only the "medical and scientific needs" of the civilized world.

Observe the wording of the resolution. When, however, the resolution came before the assembly of the league for ratification there arose the Indian delegate, a Mr. Sastri, picturesque and beturbaned, and suggested that in vast areas of India medical aid was lacking and that, in lieu of such aid the people depended on opium as a prophylactic; and at his request Dr. Koo's admirable wording was changed. The words "medical and scientific" were stricken out and in their place "legitimate needs" appeared—and the purpose of the resolution was defeated.

How will it be in Washington? Will the need of British revenue take precedence over the needs of the people of the world, those who are suffering degradation and ruin through the drug traffic? The cold fact is that the dope traffic exists today because of the profits in the sale of drugs, and before we control it we must control the evil at its source, and that seems to be largely the poppy fields in the British possessions in the far east.

Educate by all means, but an honest resolution honestly aimed, as Dr. Wellington Koo intended, is better than education. We need both. A denatured resolution is a mockery, and an international opium conference useless if the delegates put profits above the children of the world.

QUERIES
(Find the error in this article)

"Number"

Vera E. Garber, Kellogg, Idaho: "In a recent instalment of 'The Right Word' I noted that it is correct to say, 'In this city there are a large number of children.' Will you please give the reason for the use of a plural verb (are) in this case?"

Answer: The sentence under dispute could be rearranged as follows: A large number of children are in this city. Are is the right word. Use are, have, etc., with a number, and is, has, etc., with the number.

"Together With"

Carrie Gardner, New York: "In reply to Miss Raynor, you wrote the following sentences: 'In the meantime, Miss Raynor together with other readers of this column are challenged to determine . . . I always understood that the verb is such a sentence should be is I should like to be enlightened.'"

Answer: Miss Raynor is right. Is is correct. But Miss Raynor failed to note on the following day that we was corrected to is. She had ought to have read "Yesterday's Error" on the following day.

Vocabulary

An improvident person is one who lacks in foresight or thrift; thrifless.

Querries

H. C. Van Horn, New York: "Kindly inform the writer if the word is in the following newspaper excerpt is the right word: . . . none of them is. My pal contends that are is the right word."

Answer: Either word is correct.

THE LISTENING POST

The truth is usually somewhere in between. And you ask in between what.

And we say in between the thinking of the extremists.

Somewhere between the timidity of ultra conservatism and the recklessness of ultra radicalism.

In the olden days of culture and thought and speech, there were Stoics and Epicureans.

Who followed different lines of thought. And in between those differing lines of thought was an approximation of truth.

The Stoics believing to a considerable degree in harshness of living, self denial, a putting aside of pleasure.

And the Epicureans believing more in pleasure as the end and aim of life.

And we have the same types in the world today.

They may not be so called. Not so definitely classed.

But in effect they are much of the same sort as their ancient progenitors in thought.

And perhaps both err. And the truth of living is in between.

There are some who believe in pleasure as the end and aim of life.

And some who believe in lives of harshness and denial.

And perhaps neither is exactly right.

And there is a germ of truth in both philosophies.

Life should have its times of hard work. Its times of sacrifice and denial.

And yet it does not exist solely for hard work and sacrifice and denial.

Otherwise it would be a place of harshness and gloom.

And life was not designed to be altogether that.

And neither is life designed solely for its physical and material pleasures.

Otherwise it would soon wither and decay.

So the truth is perhaps neither Stoic or Epicurean but a little of both.

Somewhere in between.

Just as the truth of nutrition is not in glut-tony or in semi starvation.

It is somewhere between.

And as gluttony will bring disaster so will fasting.

Temperance in thought, temperance in the gratification of appetite, temperance in expenditure, temperance in desire, temperance in all things.

Temperance is the place between.

So wholesome living is a cultivation of the place in between.

In between slavish labor and idle play.

In between harsh self denial and intemperate pleasure.

In between the driven beast and the unbroken colt.

In between the Arctic ice and the Tropic jungle.

There is the Temperate zone.

And in between the Arctic ice of cold intellectualism and the Tropic jungle of silly sentimentalism is the Temperate Zone of life and happiness and health.

So it is necessary that the extremists shall yield a little to meet on the common ground of tolerance, happiness, health, beauty, industry.

And in some things most of us are extremists.

Needing to move a bit toward the in between zone.

COMMENT ON DAY'S NEWS

By HENRY JAMES

A young New Yorker, Park Benjamin by name, is quoted as saying that the New York society girl is a sham. "With her paint and her powder," says Benjamin, "and her $600 Paris gowns, she hasn't one good quality, and is even worthless to herself." Well, well.

Then Benjamin proceeds to laudation of the California girl. In this he is on safe ground, with a friendly audience, and the visible evidence to support his claim. But is not the New York girl human, too?

Laying aside the brutal theory that Benjamin had the mischance to be turned down by a New Yorker, it must be admitted that his estimate of the type coincides well with the views expressed in recent fiction. Take for example "His Children's Children" by Arthur Train, a close student of the metropolis. The novel purports to portray real conditions, and certainly does portray them as conceived by the novelist. His pictures of society life are pitiless. They bear out to a nicety all that Benjamin has stated.

Another book as devoid of mercy is "Black Oxen." This is by Gertrude Atherton, sometime Californian. She has a caustic pen, but a true eye. And the way in which she smears contempt on society pretense leaves nothing to be uttered unless an exclamation of pity at the spectacle of high-toned hides nailed to the door.

"Main Street" and "Babbitt" each took a resounding whack at humbler folk. Train and Atherton have attended to the case of the upper crust. Now along comes a living and talkative witness confirming their judgments.

A woman lawyer complains that when she visits the county jail she is not permitted to get close enough to her client for the exchange of confidences. Between her and the client is stretched a wire mesh. Through this a whisper may be projected, but saws and pistols, to say nothing of bundles of cocaine, are effectually stopped.

Prisoners are entitled to protection, and so is the public. The prisoner who is supplied with weapons or tools or drugs is likely to do something rash. A continual procession of these things seems to have entered the jail. The time for the erection of an effective dam surely had arrived.

This is not to say that any lawyer would be guilty, but in the absence of the dam, somebody would be guilty.

There could be no objection more singular than that entertained in Europe that the war debts of the world should be paid by the United States.

Such payment would not be practicable nor convenient. Neither could it be reckoned wise. If Europe is to be privileged to plunge into war to the cost of billions, and then hand its accounts over to America for settlement, the temptation to fight might be so increased as not to be resisted.

Let the dancer pay the piper.

The steady effort to create the impression that the Pacific coast baseball league is a crooked organization, is not doing anything to help the game.

Syndicate baseball is not wanted. The managers accused of promoting it seem able to show a clean bill of moral health. This being the case, the accusers become the ones subject to blame, and deserving of penalty.

The fellows who man rum ships are a more desperate lot than supposed in the beginning. At first some of them were given credit for being in the business from love of adventure. Now discovery is made that they are pirates and assassins, that they smuggle aliens in, unless they can make more money by throwing them overboard, and that narcotics form a part of the usual cargo.

Thousands of people have been killed in Persia by earthquake. The catastrophe is so far away, and the Persians themselves so alien to American thought, that it is hard to visualize the suffering. There is an appeal for help. It is addressed for the most part to America, and the great response will be here. When there comes a call for aid to suffering folk, there are no aliens.

Careless smokers have made much trouble, and now they seem to have stirred up a mess of it. They have taken to setting the forests ablaze. The authorities resent this, and so does the public. As a result it is probable that no smoking will be allowed in the government reserve.

Gone then will be the glory and the flavor of the hike for the devotee of nicotine.

The woman who has taken two gypsy boys to train is making an interesting experiment. She is a preacher by profession, and has gathered many of the curious wanderers into her fold. As a beginning, she baptized her two charges, with the approval of the parents.

If there is as much in heredity as some people believe, the children will submit while they must, and run away when they get a chance. But probably the influence of heredity has been overestimated.

It is unsafe to invite people to ride in an automobile. A policeman in Los Angeles tried it, and was hit over the head with an iron bar and thrown out.

A New York shoemaker, supposed to be poor, was murdered by his nephew, who has been found guilty and sentenced to death.

Discovery has been made that the shoemaker was rich, and that the nephew had been made the beneficiary of the will.

There seems to be a lesson tucked away somewhere in this series of episodes.

WATCHING THE PARADE

By JOHN PILGRIM

Every time I hear of some one who is in complete despair, who feels that life has turned sour in his cellar, who sees nothing ahead, I feel like saying to him:

"You are forgetting the part that Chance plays in this life of ours."

This theory of mine—that we do not know what good fortune there may be waiting just around the corner—was impressed on me anew this week. One thing and another brought a half dozen big business men to town. I do not mean big in the sense that they are rich, although most of them are. I mean that they are driving forces, men who are leaving a mark on their times with each day they live.

"I am an accident," said every one of them. It was a series of coincidences, of course, that brought the half dozen under observation. Not every rich and self-made man is an accident. But each had been engaged in other lines until he has reached middle age. Some had been successful and some had not been. Two had been complete monetary ruins. Then something happened that changed their lives. That something in each case had been totally unanticipated.

One had written a report that attracted the attention of a man who was looking for the sort of man who could write that sort of report. Another walked into a hotel dining room and met an old friend who wanted just his sort of man, but had not thought of him in that connection. Another sent a telegram to his boss which fired that gentleman's imagination. And so on and so on.

The point is that each of the half dozen was an ordinary, unmarked, middle-aged man. Then Chance drew cards.

DO YOU KNOW THAT—?

24 ANSWER QUERY, IS THE WORLD GROWING BETTER?

On next Sunday evening a service unparalleled in many features will be held in Central Christian church, corner Louise and Colorado. The pastor, Rev. Clifford A. Cole, is preaching a series of nine sermons on the general topic, "Is the World Growing Better?" Some weeks ago, in preparation for next Sunday night's discourse, he sent to 35 leading educators, churchmen and national figures a questionnaire on the subject. He has answers from 24 of them, and these he will read and comment on. These 24 are: W. R. Warren, editor World Call; Geo. P. Taubman, Long Beach; Alva W. Taylor, secretary board of social welfare, Indianapolis; Chas. M. Sheldon, editor Christian Herald and author of "In His Steps"; Mayor Geo. E. Cryer, Los Angeles; J. H. Garrison, editor Emeritus "Christian Evangelist"; Walter P. Lindeberger, congressman from this district; Bishop John J. Cantwell, Catholic diocese of L. A. and San Diego; Dr. Frank Crane, editor "Current Opinion"; Rabbi Martin A. Meyer, San Francisco; Dr. John Willis Baer, former president of Occidental College; Samuel Gompers, president American Federation of Labor; Herbert L. Willett, Chicago; Judge E. H. There is a widespread and lively curiosity as to what these men will have to say and doubtless there will be a large attendance at the service.

New Pantomime School in Paris (By Associated Press)

PARIS, June 21.—Acting without the aid of speech to interpret each expression, is being taught in a new course at the French National conservatory. Georges Vague, master of pantomime, trains pupils in facial gymnastics and posture. His students are given exercises in moving muscles of the face and in developing their ability to simulate anger, hate, joy and sorrow just as in the conventional classes, they are taught to convey ideas with a combination of facial expression, gesture and tone of voice.

One of Vague's ideas is the suppression of undue emotion. Instead of waving their arms and contorting their bodies in streets of emotion, his pupils cultivate an ability to express themselves rather with postures than with gestures.

MIX MAKES DARING LEAP IN FILM AT THE GLENDALE

Tom Mix has a new picture with the alluring title of "Tom Mix in Arabia," which comes to the Glendale theatre today. It is the greatest "stunt" production that this agile Fox star has appeared in so far. Among other reckless feats is leaping an automobile over a fifteen foot embankment into the sea, and scaling the front of a castle at a rate of speed that would give the auditor of an accident insurance company a terrible chill.

But his most surprising stunts are performed in the interior of the castle, which is supposed to stand on the brink of the sea which washes the shore of Arabia. The Arabian gentleman in charge of the castle has made up his mind that Tom shall remain a prisoner, and that hard riding son of the Golden West sets out to liberate himself and a young Arabian girl who is being detained by this same follower of the prophet.

A tribe of roving Bedouins under take to act as jailers, and Tom leads them the widest sort of a chase through, around and over the castle. The scampering of a superman, endowed with the climbing qualities of a cat, the steady nerves of a mountain goat and the strength and agility of a trained athlete, is about the only way to describe the game of "follow your leader" which Tom forces his guards to play.

There is a flying leap and somersault from a balcony into a sunken bath in the center of the castle floor that took the breath of even the Bedouins themselves.

G. H. WALKER'S KIN NOTED PANTHER SLAYERS

G. H. Walker of 1909 Gorden avenue has a brother-in-law, James Craig, living at Monalmo, B. C., where wild game seems to be quite plentiful. Mr. Craig is a famous hunter and he has 130 panthers in his credit, as well as many bears. He had a very narrow escape not long since. He was on his way between his two farms, accompanied by two of his dogs, and had no gun with him. One of the dogs, in nosing around, scented a panther's hole and darting within, caught one of the kits and killed it. The mother heard the cries of her offspring from her perch in a tree nearby and sprang at Mr. Craig, striking his shoulder and knocking him down. He sent forth a powerful cry for aid and his two dogs rushed to his rescue, engaging the furious beast until a neighboring farmer, hurrying up with a gun, shot her to death. Mr. Craig was not seriously injured but one of the dogs was nearly torn to pieces. Mr. Craig had a picture taken of the dead beast with the three living and one dead babies, clustered about her and sent it to Mr. Walker. The three kits were nursed for a few days by cats, one to each and then were sold for $25 each.

BRITISH SHIPBUILDING GROWS

LONDON, June 21.—The shipbuilding industry of Great Britain is showing a marked contrast to the dullness prevailing a year ago. The British Indian company has let contracts for 16 oil-burning vessels, aggregating approximately 152,000 gross tons, including two steamers of 21,000 tons each. The entire fleet will be used for the Indian mail and freight service.

JACKIE COOGAN SHOWS GENIUS IN 'DADDY'

Film Which Will Hays Recommended, Opens Friday at T. D. & L.

With his appearance in "Daddy," little Jackie Coogan about completes the cycle of human emotions, for in this newest picture play, written for their boy by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Coogan, the youthful genius is called upon, in one scene, to sound the deepest of tragic

Jackie Coogan "DADDY"

notes. It was the performance of this role and scene that evoked from Will H. Hays his tribute of tears and the remark that "the world needs more pictures like this."

While "Daddy" sounds depths of tragedy and pathos, it is mainly devoted to the surface of smiles and laughter. Jackie, after every discouragement, plods on, and after every misfortune finds comfort; in the end he achieves complete happiness—if complete happiness is ever found.

Nobody better than Jackie's parents could write a story for him, calculated to explore every angle of the boy's versatile genius. In "Peck's Bad Boy" the impishness of the lad was specially revealed; in "Trouble" the note of pathos was injected with the merriment that is Jackie's birthright; in "My Boy" humor abounded and in "Oliver Twist" the courage, tenderness and nobility of an upright youth was revealed. In "Daddy," the capacity of Jackie Coogan as a tragic emotionalist is so superbly disclosed that his work in this picture will forever stamp him as one of the greatest actors of all time, regardless of age.

"Daddy" is a First National picture and will start a two day run at the T. D. & L. Theater Friday.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful Influence Over Rheumatism

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work. He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism, and that accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery, which he called Allenhu, to others who took it, with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through the newspapers. He has therefore instructed druggists everywhere to dispense Allenhu with the understanding that if the first pinprick recovery he will gladly return your money without comment. Roberts & Echols can supply you.

An elderly young lady passed the club window. Most of those assembled at the window knew her, and the general verdict was that she was a nice girl but had

"Serves her right."

CASA VERDUGO POET WILL MARK 78TH BIRTHDAY

Phil Fenton, World Traveler, Pioneer, Writes
on Anniversary

After traveling through the countries of Europe, India, Africa
and Canada, yet extolling the merits of California and particularly of Glendale, is the experience of Phil
Fenton of Glendale, who is celebrating his 78th birthday anniversary
today. Mr. Fenton was born June 21, 1845, at Felton Grange, Surry, England. He is an ardent booster
for Glendale as the following statement will show:

"I have known Glendale from its cradle days and I have seen its growth from a wee shoot to a bud,
from a bud to a full grown tree that is branching out to its limit and little wonder. I have sampled India, Africa, Europe and the British Dominion of Canada and I want to say that for health, wealth and beauty it cannot be excelled. I know that I have found health and contentment, if not wealth, and I am sure that as a life prolonger it is par excellence."

Mr. Fenton is considerable of a poet and following is some of his work, which he has called

"BIRTHDAY THOUGHTS"
"I sure am glad to be alive
In this jolly old world of ours,
With its hopes and fears,
With its smiles and tears,
With its thistles, and its flowers.
"We have to fight. We often fail.
But, we still keep struggling on.
It's only by bravely breasting the gale
That victories can be won.
"There's a rainbow behind each
darkening cloud:
When the storms have passed away
It will arch the old world with its promise.
Of a brighter, better day.
"So let's take the world as we find
it,
And earnestly, honestly strive
To make this old world better
For having been alive.
"At round twenty-eight I'm still in the ring,
Though the fighting's a wee bit
tough.
But, I'll do my best till the sponge
goes up,
And the Referee cries enough."

GOOD LEADERS TO GUARD BOYS AT Y. M. C. A. CAMP

To insure the safety and good times of Y. M. C. A. boys of Glendale during their camping sojourn
at Catalina from June 30 to July 10, Secretary Rex Kelley has rounded up a fine list of leaders.
They are to meet next Tuesday

Foley's Friendly Fancies

JAMES W. FOLEY

ALLEGORY

A little bird sat in a tree,
And sang as sweetly as could be,
As birds can do.
A little worm beneath the ground
Heard all that chatter of sweet sound
And thrilled all through.

The little bird said: "Trust in me,
I'll make you happy as can be,
Come close and hear;
I'll give you strength and find you health,
And find you riches, ease and wealth,
And bring you cheer."

The little worm beneath the ground
Was tempted by the clear, sweet sound,
And by the terms
Of promise, and he felt a thrill.
But did not see the birdie's bill,
For catching worms.

So lured from out his earthy bed
By the sweet bird, he thrust his head
Up through to see,
And then the little bird with flash
Of wings swept down and made him hash
Quick as could be.

So, mind the moral, which is clear,
Don't take for true all songs you hear,
In type or words;
How glib the promise, still stand firm,
Or you may, like the foolish worm,
Be food for birds.

evening in the First Methodist church with Leon B. Shaw of Pasadena, for whom the camp is named,
to go over the details and responsibilities of camp management.

The men who will accompany the Glendale bunch of boys are F.
B. Mattice, J. F. Gosser, Elwood
Ingledue, W. D. Root, Dr. Frank
Arnold, Dale T. Woods, Dr. A. D.
Smith, Paul Edmonds, Thomas E.
Ehrhart, G. E. Murphy, Wilfred
Gulick, E. F. Grubb, O. F. Walton,
C. G. Elliott, O. C. Hallam, William
Marple, Dr. J. Anderson, Capt. E.
Z. Collings.

The full Y. M. C. A. committee will also be present at the conference Tuesday night.
Salmacia Brothers of the Glendale Music company have again
generously provided a phonograph
and records for the camp, which also has a wireless outfit with magnavox attachment which was given to the camp by a Pasadena firm.

The pioneer notcher camp point
system will be in vogue and each

boy will receive a folder setting forth the four-fold tests, physical, mental, service and spiritual. Last year the boys that made the required number of points were given a Y. M. C. A. sweater monogram. This year they will get the same thing but it will center a white background on which will be the letters "C. S." signifying
"Camp Shaw."

The camp will have a bank in which the boys will deposit their money and from which they will be allowed to withdraw only 15c a day.

The evening of July 4 there will be a program of fireworks provided
out of general camp fund and set off under supervision of camp leaders.

The boys will leave here at 7:30
Saturday, June 30. Some already have their grips packed. An extra tent has been secured and there is now room for two more boys.
The camp program will include an athletic and an aquatic meet.

Quite a group of Y. M. C. A. boys went from Burbank Monday to the

OSTEOPATHS TO DISCUSS CURES IN NEW YORK

Big Annual Convention to Be Held in the East

The cure of some forms of appendicitis without surgery; the correction of defective eyesight without glasses; the cure or alleviation
of certain forms of deafness by digital manipulation of the ear,
nose, and throat; the opening and straightening of obstructed nasal
passages by a resetting and moving of bones of the nose; the avoidance of many tonsil, adenoid,
and mastoid operations; the successful treatment of mental and nervous disorders by osteopathic
adjustments; the prevention and cure of many forms of illness by the restoration, through osteopathic technique, of prolapsed internal organs to their proper positions;
these are among the topics of outstanding interest which will be discussed at the 27th annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association, to be held in New York at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel
during the first week of July.

Owing to the fact that the business conditions following the war
have, within the last year, swung decisively toward normal, and so
made exceptionally large and successful conventions again possible,
this is expected by its organizers
to be the largest meeting of osteopathic physicians ever held; and in more ways than one likely to be reckoned the tallest milestone
in the history of osteopathy since old Dr. Andrew Taylor Still of Missouri "discovered" the human spine in 1874.

It is expected that two thousand osteopaths from all over the United States as well as many from England and Canada will be in attendance. The officers of the association who are planning the convention program announce that it is part of their intention to make the program a medium for explaining osteopathy to the American people.
